THE LAST HYMN.

BY HENRIETTA WINGHAM.

The Sabbath day was ending in a village by the sea.
The uttered benediction touched the people tenderly.
And they rose to face the sunset in the And they looked across the waters, and a storm was raging there;
A fierce spirit moved above them—the wild spirit of the air—
And they looked, and shook, and tore them till they thundered, groaned, and boomed,
And, alas! for any vessel in their yawning gulfs entombed.

Very anxious were the people on that rocky coast of Wales.
Least the danger of coming tomorrow should be telling awful tales,
When the sea had spent its passion and should cast upon the shore,
Bits of wreck, and swollen victims, as it had done heretofore.

With the rough winds blowing round her a brave woman strained her eyes,
As she saw along the billows a large vessel fall and rise.
Oh! it did not need a prophet to tell what the end must be,
For no ship could ride in safety near that shore on such a sea.

Then the pitying people hurried from their homes and thronged the beach.
Oh, for power to cross the waters and the perishing to reach!
Helpless hands were wrung in terror, tender hearts grew cold with dread,
And the ship urged by the tempest to the fatal rock sped.

"She has parted in the middle! Oh, the fall of her goes down.
God have mercy! Is this heaven far to seek for those who drown?"
Lo! when next the white, shrouded faces looked with terror on the sea,
Only one last clinging figure on a spar was seen to be.

Nearer to the trembling watchers came the wreck tossed by the wave,
And the man still clung and floated, though no power on earth could save.
"Could we send him a short message? Here's a trumpet, shout away!"
"Twas the preacher's hand that took it, and he wandered what to say.

Any memory of his sermon? First? Secondly? Ah, no.
There was but one thing to utter in that awful hour of woe.
So he shouted through the trumpet, "Look to Jesus! Can you hear?"
And "Aye, aye, sir!" rang the answer o'er the waters loud and clear.

Then they listened, "He is singing, 'Jesus, lover of my soul.'"
And the winds brought back the echo, "While the nearer waters roll."
Strange indeed it was to hear him, "Till the storm of life is past,"
Singing bravely o'er the waters. "Oh, receive my soul at last."

He could have no other refuge, "Hangs my helpless soul on thee."
"Leave, oh! leave me not!"—the singer dropped at last into the sea.

And the watchers looking homeward, through their eyes by tears made dim,
Said, "He passed to be with Jesus in the singing of that hymn."

Dr. Gates Again.

In last week's Iron-tonian was published some account of the western wanderings of Lawrence County, Ohio, late lamented criminal, Dr. A. V. Gates, which brief history was copied from a Portland, Oregon, paper furnished this office by Officer Munshower. This week we present to our readers a more complete record of Gates' career, from the time he left New York until his final apprehension in a small place called Thurston, Washington, Ter., on the 27th of last April. The details here presented were given us by City Marshal, Nathan Munshower, who was employed by Mr. R. W. Magee, one of the bondsmen, to manage the case at this place, and under whose direction, the bird was caged and would have been brought back to prison for trial, but the aged father of this wayward man in order to shield him from the iron hand of the law, went to the bondsmen and either paid or secured the amount upon the condition that said bondsmen would not be instrumental in causing his son's arrest. Mr. R. W. Magee the bondsman who had instituted the search, then authorized Officer Munshower to cause the prisoner's release, which was done.

Aside from being an account of Gates' exploits, the interesting and harmonious working of the Detective force of this country. No matter how remote, uncivilized and almost uninhabited a region of country the fleeing criminal may seek, in which to isolate himself from the busy world, he will yet have one constant companion, faithful until arrest, the "shadow" will ever follow him, for where the "eye of those who never sleep" has been turned upon him he might as well pass in his checks. But to the thread of our narrative. A short time after Frank Blagg of Proctorville returned from New York and reported Gates as having purchased a ticket and declared his intention to set sail for Europe; Mr. R. W. Magee, being on the bond, very naturally took a deep interest in the Doctor's welfare, and in order to be sure that there was no mistake about him having left America, Mr. Magee wired Pinkerton at New York, probably the greatest living detective, to make inquiries concerning his man. Pinkerton replied in a few days, that he knew nothing at all about the fugitive.

Matters ran on for about two weeks or so, Mr. Magee then came to Officer Munshower asking advice as to the best course to be pursued, and showing him a copy of the dispatch which he had received from Allen Pinkerton. Officer Munshower then wrote to Pinkerton, giving description of Gates and asking for information concerning his whereabouts. In a few days he received an answer from him stating that Gates had been in New York and had left there on a Western bound train. Mr. Munshower then wrote to D. J. Cook, general manager of the Rocky Mountain Detective Association at Denver City, Col., and received a reply to the effect that he had given the affair due attention and that a man answering to the description of Gates, supposed to be him, had been in Denver City about the time stated in the letter, but had remained there only a day or two, and had passed through. Supposition was that he had gone out on the Pacific slope.

The next that was heard of the Doctor he had been operating at Walla Walla. An account of his exploits at this place has been published. Mr. Magee was informed as above and in consultation with the officer, offered $300 for the arrest and detention of Gates in any jail in the United States. This amount was finally reduced to $150 and $50 for information that would lead to his arrest. In the meantime negotiations were going on for the settlement of the bond by Gates' relatives; the understanding was that if they didn't pay the amount Mr. Magee would bring the Doctor back for trial as soon as hands could be laid on him.

While the Doc's fate was being discussed here, he remained in perfect peace and had a blissful time at Walla Walla, made a dash on a girl and skipped out for Colfax where he hung out his shingle as Dr. J. M. Snyder, from Michigan. His late love followed him to Colfax and disturbed the calm serenity of his situation, so he hired a rig to take her back home, but he started in an opposite direction and the horse and buggy were sent back from the direction of Colfax. About this time Officer Munshower, through an assistant, secured one of Gates' pictures and a Proctorville man, who probably don't know to this day that the picture was taken from his house, copied and the copy returned in place of the original, from which were made a large number of photographs. Over 175 letters containing one of the photographs and a descriptive circular of the fugitive were sent out over the section of country where he had been last heard from, and every Sheriff and other officials for miles around Gates were on the look out for him.

He was next reported at Brookville, where he remained a short time and went to Spokane Falls, in Washington Ter. This place is described as a wild, weird spot, and Gates' daily companions were a lot of half-bred and Indians. Thence he went to Florence, Arizona. At this place he wrote a communication to the Cincinnati Enquirer saying: "A few days ago a young man was murdered at a camp close by this place. The killing was charged to have been done in self-defense, but the impression was that it was done for the purpose of robbery. There was nothing on the person to identify the young man by, but it was supposed that he was a young physician from Cincinnati. This is written in the hope that some of his friends may be led to make inquiries." Mr. Munshower read the paper and at once concluded it was the pen of Gates; so he wrote to the Sheriff of the county in which Florence is situated and it wasn't long before he received a dispatch stating that Dr. Gates was there, and if they wanted him to let them know. He replied per telegraph, telling the Sheriff to keep his eye on him for a few days and he would notify him when to make an arrest. Other letters were received telling of Gates having visited Prescott, and Yuma, Arizona. Then he went to Yakima, Washington Ter., at this place the Sheriff, Stephens and Yakima counties got after him and he was arrested. They brought him back to Yakima City, there they received Munshower's letter to release the prisoner, that he didn't want him. One of the Sheriffs who made the arrest thus speaks of the Doctor: "I received your letter and turned the Doc. loose. He is a hard case, and is good on the bluff, but we are used to his kind out here. He stayed in camp over night and then left for the upper country. He wears vengeance against you (Munshower) and says that if he ever sees you he will shoot you on sight. He is certainly one of the grandest rascals I ever saw. He had some money here, but couldn't say just how much. We had quite a chase after him through the mountains, came up to him at a small place called Thurston, and after some trouble took him in and brought him about 130 miles into Yakima county."

For making the arrest, the officers claim $100 as reasonable pay, and we understand Mr. Magee or Mr. Gates will make good the amount.—Dollar Weekly Iron-tonian.

Calomel in Tomatoes.

An old subscriber and friend writes us that a celebrated French chemist and physician, who has analyzed tomatoes declares that they contain all the elements of calomel, and he has known them to salivate persons. She wishes our opinion on the subject, and we have only to say that this idea has been going the rounds of the press for more than thirty years. It is a falsehood from beginning to end. The idea that they produce salivation may possibly have originated from the fact that, eaten in large quantities by some persons, the acid of the fruit seems to irritate those parts of the mouth with which it comes in contact. The idea that tomatoes cause cancer is another superstition, the outgrowth of the former notion that tomatoes were unfit to eat. They cause neither cancer nor salivation, and may be eaten with impunity by most persons, and often with great benefit.—Herald of Health.

It is claimed that a man never loses anything by politeness, but this has proved to be a mistake. As an old Philadelphia lifted his hat to a young lady the wind carried away his wig.
